Hello Psyc Club Members,

In the meeting this week we enjoyed Dr. Jim DeGroot a clinical psychologist whose title is the Director of Mental Health for Georgia Department of Corrections. He spoke to us about a day in the life of a clinical psychologist based on his job title. We really thank him for coming it was very interesting and he really went in depth about everything by answering our questions.

Tomorrow will be recreation day, we will be playing volleyball in front of the psychology class building at 3, so bring yourself and a friend. The more people the better! Next week we will host two bake sales in the pedestrian mall on main campus.

Set up for the bake sales are at 10:45 so if you can please help. Also please let me or the president know if you want to bring something for us to sell at the bake sale and you can just place it in the breakroom next to the microwave.

We will be filling up more slots for the bake sales at Tuesday's meeting so please come to the meeting or email me back to let me know what time slot works for you.
